The Low Income Public Benefits Program

Wisconsin's Public Benefits Program was created by the Wisconsin State Legislature in 1999 as part of the Reliability 2000 Initiative. In fiscal year 2018, the Low-Income Public Benefits Program was administered by the Department of Administration's Division of Energy, Housing and Community Resources.

The Low-Income Public Benefits Fund is funded by electric and natural gas utility ratepayers. Wisconsin's investor-owned utilities are required by law to participate. Municipal electric utilities and electric cooperatives have the option of participating in the state program or operating their own "Commitment to Community" programs. Revenue for the Low-Income Public Benefits Fund comes from three sources:

- 1. Funds investor-owned utilities collected through rates established by the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin, which include fees added to electric bills participating utilities collected and remitted to the state.
- 2. Funds contributed by participating municipal electric utilities and cooperatives.
- 3. Voluntary donations.

Households with income at or below 60 percent of Wisconsin's State Median Income (SMI) may be eligible for Wisconsin Home Energy Assistance Program (WHEAP) or Weatherization Services.

In fiscal year 2018, 226,467 households applied for energy assistance. The Low-Income Public Benefits Fund through Home Energy Plus provided assistance to 198,845 households with limited incomes throughout Wisconsin. The ultimate goal of all low-income energy programs is to make the households' energy self-sufficient—that is, to provide services that help households meet energy costs on an ongoing basis without sacrificing other necessities. The programs are delivered to eligible households through county health and human service agencies, community-action agencies, tribal governments, and other nonprofit organizations.

Home Energy Plus Programs receive significant financial contributions from the federal government through the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) block grant and the Weatherization Assistance Program (WAP). As a result of 1999 Wisconsin Act 9, these programs also receive state Public Benefits funding. Public Benefits funding was continued under 2005 Wisconsin Act 141. The Public Benefits Fund has allowed the state to increase the number of households that receive energy conservation and weatherization services, and to increase electric and emergency benefit payments. By integrating these funds with the federal LIHEAP and WAP, Wisconsin has developed a comprehensive assistance program that addresses "whole-house" energy needs.

Program Highlights

Electric Bill Assistance

Electric assistance is a one-time, annual payment intended to pay a portion of a household's electricity costs. The amount of the benefit is dependent on the household's income, size of the household, and electric costs incurred by the household. The energy used by electric appliances in a home is referred to as baseload energy use. Typically, baseload energy encompasses lighting, refrigeration, laundry appliances, and electronics. Water heating and cooking may also be considered baseload energy.

Crisis Assistance

Crisis assistance is available to eligible households that were subject to disconnection of their utility service, or a fuel emergency. Crisis assistance is provided through both emergency services and proactive services. During the heating season (October 1 through May 15), emergency services helps customers by purchasing heating fuel (LIHEAP), supplying a warm place to stay, and/or providing for emergency heating system repair or replacement. Proactive services helped residents avoid future emergencies by establishing co-payment plans between the customer, energy provider, and WHEAP agency. Training and information on how to reduce energy costs, budget counseling and money management, or taking other needs-based actions helped residents more effectively manage their energy bills.

Heating Bill Assistance

Heating assistance is a one-time, annual payment intended to pay a portion of a household's heating costs. The amount of the benefit is dependent on household income, size of the household, and heating costs incurred by the household. The benefit covers a percentage of a recipient's household annual heating bill.¹ In most cases, the heating assistance benefit is applied directly to the household's bill with the energy provider. Heating assistance is funded through the LIHEAP federal funds.

¹ In FY18, heating assistance paid on average 56% of an annual heating bill.

Home Energy Plus Statistics: Fiscal Year 2018

Electric Assistance (Public Benefits)

- Provided assistance to 198,845 households
- Average payment: $196

Crisis Assistance (Public Benefits)

- Provided assistance to 20,872 households
- Average payment: $261

Heating Bill Assistance (LIHEAP)

- Provided assistance to 196,585 households
- Average payment: $374

Crisis Assistance (LIHEAP)

- Provided assistance to 30,429 households
- Average payment: $289

*Some households may be counted more than once when there is more than one household member in an at-risk category.

Weatherization Services

The Wisconsin Home Energy Plus Low-Income Weatherization Program helped reduce home energy costs for 6,784 households by reducing home energy consumption. Households participating in the program can save $500¹ each year on average.² As a result of participation in the program, customers' homes are more comfortable—warmer in the winter, and cooler in the summer.

Weatherization Services and the Economy

The Weatherization Program offers services in all 72 Wisconsin counties through a network of 20 local agencies. Utilities, energy assistance providers, and trade contractors are important partners in the successful delivery of weatherization services.

Weatherization benefits of energy efficiency and the corresponding “green jobs” are the seeds of economic recovery, job growth, and infrastructure development, all of which are at the core of the Home Energy Plus Programs. The weatherization and other downstream weatherization-related jobs continue to assist in employing Wisconsin laborers.
